Abroad.

Steering Gear Went Wrong and Machine Jumped Into a Ditch.

WURZBURG, Bavaria, July 23.—Congressman Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Longworth were thrown out of their automobile yesterday but received only a bruise and no damage was sustained. They reached their destination, Bayreuth, today in time for the opening of the opera.

The Longworths had passed through Wurzburg in the morning and went a short distance out of the town when the steering gear of their car refused to work and the automobile, which was going at a rapid rate, careened on the road and fell down a short embankment into a ditch. The chauffeur, after a short wait, obtained a carriage in which they returned here and took a train for Bayreuth.

by Outrage.

BERLIN, July 23.—The Vossische Zeitung this afternoon published a dispatch from Katowitz, Prussian Silesia, that the Singer sewing machine factory at Sosnowice and Bendzin were blown up by bombs at about the same time today.

NEW YORK, July 23.—At the office of the Singer Sewing Machine Company in this city it was said that the Singer company had only branch stores in Sosnowice and Bendzin, but had no factory there. A representative of the company said its loss would not be extensive. The company received no information from its own sources as to the blowing up of the places.

NOTED WOMAN UP FOR LARCENY

FANNY ROSENTHAL, the "Diamond Queen."

The "Diamond Queen," Fanny Rosenthal, Faces a Judge in Berkeley.

BERKELEY, July 23.—Fanny Rosenthal is on trial here today on a felony charge. Great interest is being taken in the case.

The arrest on June 25 of the "Diamond Queen" attracted considerable attention. Mrs. Rosenthal was caught in the dry goods store of Hink & Co. on Shattuck avenue, corner of Kittredge street, with trimmings in her possession which an employee of the store said were taken from the counter and not paid for. Over $5 worth of lace trimmings were found in the possession of the woman when she was taken to the police station by Chief of Detectives Jamison.

SAYS SHE IS INNOCENT.

Fanny Rosenthal protested her innocence in vigorous terms and seemed to be heartbroken over the affair. At the time of her arrest more than $10,000 worth of diamonds were found in the possession of the woman. She was wearing two or three thousand dollars in diamonds in the shape of pendants and rings. The rest of the jewels she carried in the satchel which contained the tell-tale trimmings.

FOUND IN TRUNK.

Immediately after her arrest a thorough search of the residence at 2290 Fifth street, West Berkeley, where she was living when she was forced to flee, was made by the officers and trimmings were found in a trunk which Mrs. Rosenthal had brought with her from San Francisco.

During the first few days following her arrest the "Diamond Queen" stayed at the police headquarters crying and protesting her innocence. She said that the idea that she would steal a few dollars' worth of trimmings was preposterous. She claimed to have friends in a number of big men in San Francisco, including Judge Kerrigan and others on the bench in that city.

HER REPUTATION.

Fanny Rosenthal, at the opening of her trial this morning before Justice of the Peace Robert Edgar, sprung a surprise on the prosecution in the person of Judges Kerrigan and Hubbard and Dr. Wehler, all of San Francisco, who testified as to the good character of the woman accused of the theft of the lace trimmings.

But little else was done this morning except the impanelling of the jury. It consumed more than two hours and a half in the effort to get twelve men who could try Mrs. Rosenthal fairly and impartially.

The "Diamond Queen" is represented by Attorney E. M. Gibson of Oakland and Attorney A. B. Frost of Mill Valley. Hugh Goodfellow, of the district attorney's office, is conducting the prosecution.

The trial will be continued until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

ODESSA, JULY 23.—THE JEWS HERE ARE IN A STATE OF PANIC, FEARING ANTI-JEWISH OUTBREAKS AS THE RESULT OF KILLING A DRUNKEN COSSACK, WHO RECENTLY WANDERED THROUGH THE JEWISH QUARTERS, BRANDISHING HIS SABER AND SHOUTING: "DEATH TO THE JEWS." GOV. GEN. KAULBARS, TO A DEPUTATION OF JEWS TODAY SAID:

"I HAVE VOUCHERED FOR MY SOLDIERS, BUT I AM UNABLE TO SAY WHAT THE COSSACKS OF CHRISTIAN CIVILIANS MIGHT DO."

THE SLIGHTEST INCIDENT MIGHT START TROUBLE. COSSACKS THIS MORNING LOOTED THREE JEWISH SHOPS.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 23.—The government's midnight coup d'etat is already having the effect of uniting all the discordant elements of the opposition and it requires little perspicacity to see that an era of repression and all which it entails will drive liberal and revolutionary alike to support the most desperate measures. It is already clear that resistance will be made. According to the latest advices from Viborg the members of parliament who fled to Finland intend to defy their sovereign. They are virtually refusing to recognize the decree of dissolution, a three-hour session having been held in the dining room of the Hotel Belvidere, which was presided over by M. Mourmoutseff, at which all the formalities of a regular session were observed. Professor Millukoff and other members of the central committee of the Constitu-

Left $100,000,000 Which Is Disposed Of in His Will, and Placed in Wife's Control.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The funeral of Russell Sage, who died at his summer home in Lawrence, L. I., yesterday afternoon, will be held in the First Presbyterian Church at Far Rockaway, of which Rev. Robert G. Leitch is pastor, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The burial will be Oakland Cemetery, Troy. Mr. Sage was for a long time a member of the West-Side Presbyterian Church of this city.

THE PALLBEARERS.

The following have been selected as pallbearers at the funeral: William F. Dixon, of Cedarhurst; Elbert A. Brinckerhoff, of Far Rockaway; Geo. C. Rand, of Lawrence; Newbold L. Lawrence, of Lawrence; Albro J. Newton, of Far Rockaway; J. L. Lawrence, of Lawrence; Franklin B. Lord, of Lawrence, and Dr. J. Carl Schmuck.

EARLY STOCK DAYS.

Mr. Sage saw nearly the years of Daniel Drew, who was king of the little stock market of his days when Mr. Sage first appeared there to pile up a fortune six or seven times as great as Mr. Drew ever had. The two men were alike in little except bodily length and leanness, some personal characteristic of old-fashioned simplicity and the disposition toward longevity, but Uncle Russell succeeded where Uncle Daniel in the peculiar regard that Wall Street seems to cherish for those whom it adopts as uncles. Drew lived to be 91. Mr. Sage lacked a fortnight of 90 years. He died at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning, having been unconscious for a little more than four hours. Old age was his ailment and the immediate cause of death was heart failure.

IN CASE OF DEATH.

Financial disturbances which might possibly follow the removal from life of so important a factor in the great affairs of business have long been discounted and every contract Mr. Sage has made in the lending of money in the last two years has, it is said, contained a clause stating that in the event of his death no payments of moneys loaned should then be demanded on that account. For his death, as in his life, Russell Sage had provided against possible contingency which might injuriously affect the enterprises in which he was so active for a lifetime extraordinary in its length.

HAD BEEN FAILING.

Mr. Sage had been failing for a long time. He was very feeble all the spring and Mrs. Sage and others tried to get him to leave the city and go to his summer home as soon as winter

LARGE INCREASE IN ASSESSMENT

So far as can be determined at this time there will be an increase of between three and four millions of dollars in the county assessment rolls over that of last year. This includes only the natural increase in the valuation of property up to the first Monday in March last, and is nowhere near the actual present value of the property of this city, as the assessment rolls do not take into consideration the great increase in property values since the recent earthquake and fire in San Francisco.

ROLLS TURNED OVER.

The assessment rolls were turned over to the Board of Supervisors sitting as a Board of Equalization this afternoon, but the totals had not been footed up nor has the recapitulation been determined. There are sixty thousand separate assessments written in seventy-one volumes, but of this number of rolls but twenty have been partially gone through with. The adding machines are now pressed into service, but the totals will not be available before the latter part of this week.

MANY DEPUTIES.

It is stated that at this time that there is more actual work in the Alameda County Assessor's office than in that of San Francisco county. There at Melrose and Centerville Residents Ask that Two Licenses Be Refused.

SALOONS ARE

Two protests against the granting of saloon licenses to certain individuals were filed with the Board of Supervisors this morning. The first protest was signed by G. H. B. Birdie Bunnings and two persons whose names were not given. The second was directed against the granting of liquor license to W. Schoening or any other person at or near the corner of Bryant street and East Fourteenth street in that suburb. It was based on the fact that Melrose is being settled with a sizable class of people and that a saloon would decrease the value of their homes. Bryant street is the main thoroughfare of the district, containing homes of a number of children, and is traversed by them on the way to and from school. There are a number young men and boys of the neighborhood would make hoodlums of themselves and of the neighborhood. The proposed school would have only three blocks from the Melrose high school. As a consequence of the proposed application of Schoening was withdrawn.

THE OTHER.

Another protest was filed against granting a school license to Francis of Centerville. The protesters alleged that the application was not signed by six of the ten residents who were the nearest neighbors whose house or business was within 100 feet of the school. That the application was opposed to the best interests of the people and was made in good faith but for special purposes. The protesters then stated that Francis has, and in the strength of has obtained licenses permitting him to sell liquor at other places in said town. Conterville and has instructed and authorized the business of selling liquor in several saloons in said town, which he later sold for profit, thereby adding to the number of saloons in said town at least three which are still open and are not due to be closed as was previously quoted for the sale of liquor only.

"The undersigned therefore respectfully represents that said town is already plentifully supplied with saloons and the addition of any more to the number already in existence should be discouraged."

The protest is signed by M. Louis W. Riser and thirteen others. The subject will be discussed Monday morning.

GRANT LICENSES.

Liquor licenses were granted Jos Amarel, Alvarado; J. F. Gonçalves, Leandro roadi Chris Eferle, old road, and J. B. Barnard, Niles.

The application for a license of A Roney was continued until next week.

The First National bank of Berkeley, successor to the Commercial bank of California, asked for the cancellation of the sale of shares of stock of the Commercial bank in question on the ground that the United States Supreme Court had voided the assessment on which the sale was based was illegal. The matter was referred to the district attorney.

A resolution was adopted providing notice of the principal election (to be published in the Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda papers.

According to the aforesaid story, about $30,000 had been subscribed by Easterners, whereas only $2514.50 had been accounted for.

Lamb said to a TRIBUNE man today: "That story is ridiculous. No such sum as $30,000 ever was contributed, and there is no 'missing fund.' That statement must have been given out by some operator who did not know what he was talking about. The only question now at issue is as to

He then fired two shots from the car. This only served to infuriate the crowd which boarded the car, took the weapon from him and proceeded to beat him inside the car. The motorman was unable to draw away as some one cut the trolley rope. The trouble started at the foot of Taylor street where Lloyd got out and altercation with Nicholas Kovich and his brother, Martin, two fishermen. Lloyd was accompanied by two friends. One of the fishermen struck a friend of Lloyd and the other struck Lloyd. A mob of the fisherman's friends gathered. Lloyd, evidently to intimidate the crowd, shot four or five shots into the air. But this only increased the crowd of his opponents. He then walked down Bay street toward Powell street, and fired the two shots from the

The crowd of the car finally managed to get it started toward town and at Mission street Conductor C. Murphy turned Lloyd over to a policeman who took him in a patrol wagon to the police station and from there to the Potterton Emergency hospital. He was attended there by Drs. William Buhl and W. Stone. After being treated for numerous lacerations on the head and face he left the hospital and went to his home at Eighteenth and Dolores streets where he lies in a tent. The hospital physicians tell him go under protest. They think he has a skull fracture of the skull.

Oakland Tribune

W. E. DARGIE, President.

Office: Tribune Building, Eighth and Franklin Streets, Oakland.

The Sunday Tribune.

The SUNDAY TRIBUNE is not only a firmly established institution, but it is a conspicuous success, exceeding even the most sanguine expectations as to its popularity with the public. Its success has been so phenomenal as to warrant continued improvements, which will be made from time to time, and in a more marked degree after the arrival of our new sextuple press, which will be shipped from Chicago in a few days.

Yesterday's edition of the SUNDAY TRIBUNE was as complete a Sunday newspaper as was printed in the State. It consisted of forty pages in form, with a news, one magazine section and a comic supplement. This is the first time we have issued a comic supplement, which will hereafter be a regular and attractive feature of the SUNDAY TRIBUNE. None of the special features which have heretofore made the TRIBUNE noted will be sacrificed to make room for the comic supplement, however. The letters of "The Knave" and "Sandy," the gossip of "Betty Martin," and the sporting review of Eddie Smith will continue to entertain these pages as of yore, while the news columns, society melange and literary features will be kept up to the high standard which the SUNDAY TRIBUNE has set for itself.

In short, Oakland's pioneer Sunday newspaper has already taken rank with the best publications of its kind on the Pacific coast, it gives us satisfaction to say, and is high testimony of the appreciative spirit of the people of Oakland and Alameda county.

The Public Mind Corrupted.

The saddest thing in connection with the Thaw-White murder case is the general acceptance of the idea that Thaw will escape punishment because his family is possessed of vast wealth. It is assumed that money will be the deciding factor in the case independent of the law, the facts and the principles of justice.

Can anything be more demoralizing than the permanent lodgment in the popular mind of the idea that the administration of justice is influenced, if not controlled outright, by money? Respect for law is grounded on confidence in the integrity and wisdom of the courts. The law, of course, becomes impotent and even an instrument of injustice if judicial procedure is to be determined by the amount of gold that can be thrown in the scales.

Justice often fails when courts are neither corrupt nor subservient, but such failures are neither a reproach to the courts nor an indictment of the law; they are due to the inherent infirmity of all human inventions to meet every contingency. Being recognized as inevitable, they are regarded with philosophy and resignation.

But the pendency of courts to wealth is a different and graver matter. If it be true that money tempers justice for the rich criminal, the virtue of the law is corrupted in its administration. If false, the impression produces a state of mind exceedingly detrimental to the public welfare. Such a belief destroys faith, not only in judicial process, but in all branches of government, and prepares a good citizen to become a bad one. It is extremely unfortunate, therefore, that the public mind should have accepted as an ordinary statement of fact the suggestion that Harry Thaw is safe from punishment because his relatives have unhurried money to spend in his behalf. The idea carries with it the assumption that money will be used to suborn testimony, bribe jurors and possibly corrupt the bench itself.

In every aspect it is a degrading and demoralizing suggestion. It carries the implication that the springs of justice are hopelessly defiled and commercialized as they are in China. The impression is an erroneous one in our opinion, but that it prevails generally cannot be denied. It is this fact that is pregnant with a sinister significance which forebodes evil consequences.

The New York Bosses Against Taft.

It is stated that Senator Platt and former Governors Odell and Black have formed a combine in New York and are scheming to prevent Secretary Taft from getting the Presidential nomination in 1908. Why that doddering pantaloon of politics, Chauncey Depew, was left out of the combination is not stated. There are some objections to Secretary Taft, but the alliance of the three worthies mentioned against him goes far to atone for all faults and removes all objections. The opposition is a certificate of character which the public will not be slow to appreciate. Platt and Depew and Quay schemed at Philadelphia to get Roosevelt nominated for the Vice-Presidency but that of an assassin might have a clear road for Governor, but the bullet of an assassin changed the face of politics, and while Odell succeeded to the gubernatorial chair, Platt was finally the victim of his own political strategy, for Odell threw off his allegiance and set up to be boss himself. After the President and Governor Higgins turned hands to take the Republican machine out of the hands of Odell and his followers, Platt and Odell formed a new alliance, that might properly be termed a league to promote bossism and corruption in the Republican party of New York. Secretary Taft is fortunate in his enemies. At the same time, Platt, Odell and Black have given a mark to go by in passing upon the merits of candidates aspiring within the Republican party to the Presidency.

The Fresno Democrat has acquired a grievance and calls on a cold and unsympathetic world to listen to its tale of woe. Nothing so distressing has occurred according to the Democrat, which is addicted to duckfists, Democracy and various kinds of dampfoolishness, since the slugging of Billy Patterson, back in the Know-nothing days. It seems that when he was down looking over the estate bequeathed to the State University by the late M. Theo. Kearney, the Governor ventured to make a playful reference to the fervor of the Fresno climate. In hoarse, indignant tones the Democrat declares it is no joke. Indeed, it is not. The Fresno climate is a serious matter at any season of the year, but the Democrat can be relied on at all times to supply the comic element. It is funniest when it is fiercest. And it is usually fierce indeed.

Lesson of Russell Sage's Life.

The life of Russell Sage is worthy of examination. How valuable his existence was to himself and to his country is a question so fairly debatable as to invite study.

Mr. Sage achieved conspicuous success so far as the accumulation of wealth is concerned, and the acquirement of riches is the criterion of success in the minds of a vast number of people. He lived to be within a month of ninety years, exceeding the psalmist's limit by a score of years. He neither smoked nor drank, and was addicted to no personal vices so far as any one knew. He was a man of clean habits and clean speech, a regular attendant at church, and a rigid respecter of his word. He was industrious. He worked hard from early youth to extreme old age, and saved, saved, saved. He leaves a fortune estimated at something like a million for every year he lived—and no children.

Yet can it be conscientiously said that Russell Sage's life was one to be envied, or his career one inviting admiration and emulation? Was his life really a worthy and useful one? He wore the cheapest clothes, ate the simplest fare, and worked, worked, worked. He indulged in no holidays and was opposed to employers giving their employes holidays. He considered holidays a waste of time and a frittering away of opportunity.

He amassed his vast fortune by lending and manufacturing in stocks. He did not engage in commerce or money, and while he loaned money to railroad builders and speculated in railroad stocks, he never built railroads himself. He erected no splendid buildings as ornaments to civic life, took no part in public improvements, endowed no colleges or libraries, and contributed nothing to art and letters. He lived like a spider, forever weaving about him a golden web which was his only pursuit and his only enjoyment.

In his business relations he was strictly honest in the commercial sense, living up to his contracts and the letter of his word with religious exactness. He did not cheat and he did not lie. But he was close-fisted and drove hard bargains. He took advantage of men's necessities to buy what they had to sell cheap and to lend them money at usurious rates of interest. In money-making he neither gave nor asked for quarter, although it is stated that on several occasions he came to the relief of friends and associates hard pressed in the "street" without exacting his pound of flesh.

It should also be said for Russell that he was a devoted and tender husband. All the love of his pent-up nature he lavished on his wife, who returned his affection with the deepest love. Mrs. Sage did a great deal of charity work in a modest way, but her husband had no inclination in that direction, being indisposed to devote either time or money to mitigating poverty, which he regarded as mainly due to laziness, improvidence or vicious habits.

Yet, after all is said and done, was Russell Sage the type of citizen that makes nations great or ennobles humanity? What uplifting influence had he on the human race? His virtues were negative, and were part and parcel of a concentrated nature working for a single object—the acquisition of wealth. Who can imagine Russell Sage playing the part of George Washington or Abraham Lincoln? A clean man and honorable in the sense that the world understands the term, he hoarded for the love of hoarding, strove all his long life for the sordid object of the miser. Was he a good man or a good citizen?

It was very inconsiderate of Alfred Beit to die just after the syndicate writers had written him up as the richest man in the world and show that his wealth was less than one-tenth of that possessed by our own Rockefeller. Cecil Rhodes, it will be remembered, was not half so wealthy as he was represented to be.

LOAFERS IN THE REFUGEE CAMPS.

It is very evident that there is a class of people in San Francisco who are taking advantage of the generous charity of the American people and who are determined not to work as long as that charity lasts. Able-bodied men and many women who formerly hired out as servants and did other work are still found in the refugee camps living on the rations that are daily handed out, while the State and country are crying for laborers. Many of these people have been offered employment, but have refused on the ground that the money so liberally contributed during the days of the catastrophe was sent for their use and benefit and that they are entitled to it. Some of these people are living better in the camps than they ever lived before; they eat better, dress better and are better housed. It cannot be expected that they will voluntarily relinquish these conditions and go back to the life of misery and drudgery they knew before the fire. But something should be done to prevent them becoming perpetual paupers and those who are able but will not work should be forced to work. The chain gang would be a good antidote for some of the loafers. San Francisco cannot afford to nurture a colony of professional mendicants.—Nevada City Miner-Transcript.

CHIPS FROM OTHER BLOCKS.

Professor Suzzallo of Stanford University looks at things through a glass darkly. He says: "The United States as a nation is passing under an industrial and commercial cloud. The nation has turned away from the artistic; from the beautiful in art, literature, science; from Shakespeare to vaudeville; from churches to theaters, and empty pews in our places of worship tell the story of our moral degradation. Our whole stupendous energy has been turned to an enormous economic civilization which is degrading our women of the poorer classes by driving them to the workshop and our wealthy women by frivolity." That is all right, Professor. The people know all about the crisis. What they would like to know now is how to avert it.—Watsonville Register.

Secretary Root has started for South America. It is to be hoped for his own welfare that he will not return imbued with the idea of starting a revolution against President Roosevelt.—Tacoma News.

HIS KNOWLEDGE OF WEEDS.

At a suburban residence near Philadelphia there recently appeared an unkempt-looking individual who asked for employment. It chanced that this application was made to the lady of the house herself, who was superintending the transplanting of plants in the garden.

"Are you a gardener?" asked the lady.
"Ain't had much experience at gardenin'," was the reply.
"Can you plant these bushes?"
"I'd hate to risk spollin' 'em, mum."
"Then what can you do?"
"Well, mum," responded the unkempt-looking individual, "if you was to hand me one of your husband's cigars I might sit in the greenhouse an' smoke out them insects that's eatin' the leaves of them rose bushes."—Harper's Weekly.

Another demonstration of Hale's method of holding the most popular sales on record. It's Hale's policy to offer values of more than ordinary importance, and to give the public goods of reliable quality at the lowest prices.

Since opening the doors at 8:30 a. m. there has been hundreds of women taking advantage of the unusual values in muslin undergarments. Many were amazed at the vastness of the stock, the good quality, the pretty and dainty styles and the remarkably low prices, and bought underwear to last them for considerable time to come. The saving warrants one procuring a large supply. If you have not attended today, be sure to come tomorrow. The Story of a Genius.

Pathetic Ending of a Career That Ought to Have Been Successful.

In the death of Charles E. Tripler the world receives a sad story. He was no "speculator" in exploiting his belief that he could make liquid air for commercial purposes. He ran through his fortune in making his discovery known to the people. His wife used more than $50,000 of hers in forming a corporation that would bring millions to the Triplers. John P. Jones of Nevada and "Steve" Dorsey of Star route fame got in on the ground floor of Tripler's stock company. They capitalized it at 20 million dollars, opened costly offices, and tied up poor Tripler in many obligations.

Mismanagement of the company did not suggest anything to the Tripler, who saw himself as one of the big men in a famous age. He spent his time perfecting the liquid air. Dorsey looked after the capital stock of the company. Time came when the stock was thrown on the market and the corporation did not pay its bills. Tripler was as steady as a giant lifting a child across a primrose sea. He tried to meet all his obligations. Then Mrs. Tripler, always proud of her husband's success, gave of her fortune to pull him from defeat.

The commercial success of liquid air was not proved, but a greater truth was again shown to those who doubt that life has more in it than the shallow things noted on the surface. Brave Isabel S. Tripler died early in this year, strong in her family ties and poor in her ability to will fortunes to those she loved. She did say, however, that she was possessed of $20,000 which she devoted absolutely to her ambitious and beloved husband. Whatever remains of his estate will now become the property of a son and daughter. Fortune in its broadest wave, but not happiness, just missed the Triplers.—New York Press.

Long Lived Lawsuit.

Spain has a lawsuit, still unsettled, that has been in the courts 822 years, or since 1517. The case, which concerns a pension, began between the Marquess de Viana and the Count Torres de Cabrera, and the accumulated sum in dispute would have reached fabulous millions had not four centuries of attorneys, barristers and court officials taken considerable measures of appropriation to prevent the amount becoming unwieldy.—Ex.

ACCIDENT OR FOUL MURDER?

Oakland Man Meets With Mysterious Death in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—George A. Cunningham, a Hawaiian, who has been rooming in Oakland at the Saratoga house and who was a cook on the Pacific Mail steamer Aztec, was found in a dying condition on Stewart street Saturday. He died shortly after. No one witnessed the accident or assault, as the case may have been.

Cunningham, in an unconscious condition and suffering from a wound on the back of his head, was taken to the hospital, where Dr. Glover diagnosed his injury as a fracture of the skull. There were no other wounds on the body.

The patient died at 3 o'clock in the afternoon without having regained consciousness.

Detective Egan was put on the case.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC PLANS NEW LINE.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—Although the Southern Pacific has two roads between this city and Sacramento, one via Stockton and Martinez and the other by way of Benicia, it is now securing rights of way for a line to be known as the Sacramento Southern Railroad. It is to develop a new district and extend from Sacramento to Antioch and Walnut Grove. It will connect with the present San Francisco and Sacramento line that runs by way of Martinez and Stockton and thus give the two former cities a third route. About $2,500,000 is to be spent on this line, which will be about twenty miles in length.

The Southern Pacific syndicate is to build this line in order to strengthen itself in a traffic sense against both the Santa Fe and Western Pacific. The latter company intends to have a short line as practicable between Sacramento and Oakland and this city and at the same time touch the rich fruit district in the section of the country between Stockton and Sacramento. Its projected line is to run through the country where the Southern Pacific is to build its Sacramento Southern.

The Santa Fe has a company incorporated to build in the same territory. For the present it gets a lot of traffic there by maintaining a line of fruit steamers and light-draught barges which connect with its present main line at Antioch.

The directors and officers of the new Sacramento Southern Railroad are as follows: E. E. Calvin, Captain N. T. Smith, J. L. Willcutt, William Hood and W. F. Herrin.

WESTERN PACIFIC NEEDS MORE MEN.

The Western Pacific officials here, together with the contractors building the new Gould line, are endeavoring to secure 7000 more laborers in addition to a force of 10,000 men now at work in Utah, Nevada and this state. Under constant urging from George J. Gould in New York to rush construction work as fast as possible this summer and fall, agents have been sent into the Middle West and Northwest States to try to secure the men.

The contractors of the Nevada section of the new San Francisco and Salt Lake line are especially in need of an increased force.

Work on the 4000-foot tunnel in the Niles canyon back of Oakland is being rushed night and day with the latest modern machinery. And the same is true of the three 7000-foot tunnels bored on the western slope of the Sierra Nevada mountains in Plumas county immediately west from the Beckwith pass. The minute the Niles canyon tunnel is finished Stockton and Oakland will have rail connection, for part of the line is already built and grading at other points is finished.

MOTHER, DAUGHTER DEAD IS SEARCHING FOR SON.

Mrs. Mary Barry, who found her daughter dead in bed Friday morning, is searching for a lost son, Richard Barry. The mother is destitute and needs the son. She has not seen him for three years.

The old lady and her surviving daughter occupy one room at the Kelsey house, 635 Twenty-fourth street. When seen last night she said that her son left for Alaska three years ago. Since then no word has been received from him. He is said to be a butcher by trade, and if he can be located, his mother, now grieving for her dead daughter, will spend her last days less sorrowfully.

HOTEL ARRIVALS.

METROPOLIS—W. P. Hopkins, Lock Haven, Pa.; John J. Brennan, San Francisco; E. J. Price, Kansas City; Mrs. J. C. Van Brunt, Miss A. C. Van Brunt, New York; T. G. Grothingham, Massachusetts; C. S. Andrew, New York City; L. S. Ballinger, New York; James M. Munson, El Paso; E. J. Carroll, San Diego; A. F. Burton, Manhattan; W. S. McCormick, Agnew; W. S. Huntington, Crockett; B. N. Witt, Marysville; M. L. Rose, Marysville.

A BOLD STEP.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has absolutely and completely removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them Remedies of Known Composition.

They are now in a class all by themselves—being absolutely and in every sense Non-secret.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

So many false formulas and malicious statements concerning his medicines have been published through the connivance of jealous competitors and disgruntled doctors, that Dr. Pierce determined to completely disarm his assailants by a full and frank statement of their exact composition, verifying the same under oath as complete and correct. This he has done and to the complete satisfaction of those who had assailed his good name as well as the well-earned reputation of his world-famed medicines.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness, and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this booklet it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native medicinal roots of great value, also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Sagaw-Wed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, and with the use of specially designed chemical apparatus, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most valuable remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health.

The exact proportion of the several ingredients used in these medicines, as well as the working formula and peculiar processes, apparatus and appliances employed in their manufacture, are withheld from publicity that Dr. Pierce's proprietary rights may not be infringed and trespassers upon by unprincipled imitators and those who may be pecuniarily inclined.

Dr. John R. Fyfe, of Saugatuck, Conn., Editor of the Department of Therapeutics in THE ELECTRIC REVIEW says of "Helonias" (Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription): "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator and always favors a condition which makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system, cannot fail to be of great usefulness and of the utmost importance to the general practitioner of medicine."

"Helonias" more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent."

The following are among the leading indications for Helonias: Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women, constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia, ("flooding") due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and an anemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extremities; loss of the abdomen.

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is in all the medicinal properties of Helonias.

At the annual meeting in Philadelphia last week of the National Association of Piano Manufacturers, the various phases of their business were discussed, the most important of which was perhaps that of advertising.

J. P. Simmons, of New Orleans, read a paper before the Convention strongly advocating the members of the Association using advertising space in DAILY NEWSPAPERS in preference to any other mediums, and his argument was closely listened to by the entire Convention, and the consensus of opinion among those present strongly supported the idea of Mr. Simmons.
